

Cancer doesn't care who you are. But we do.

We want to hear your views on the care you have received.

Feedback on your experience of cancer care is important to us and will help us see what's working and what needs to improve. We need to hear everyone's views, particularly people from black and minority ethnic backgrounds who are under-represented in responses.

Every year, thousands of people who had treatment in hospital between April and June are contacted to invite them to take part in the National Cancer Experience Survey. If you're not asked to be part of the survey, there are other ways to give your views about your care.
